Bourbon County Teacher's Institute.

The arrangements of Mrs. Nell Bedford Clay for conducting the Bourbon County Institute were excellent. The Institute was held in the Public School building from the 17th to the 21st inst inclusive Col. Geo. M. Edgar was the conductor, and though he had but little assistance from without, gave the county teach ers a most profitable week's work His instruction embraced a wide range of subjects, but he paid especial attention Those who purchased Hamburgs at our Mid-Summer sale last season, can tell you of the great length the qualifications of the teachers, to school management, discussing at the invironment of the pupil at home, the school house and its necessary equipment, how to organize a school, how to Ladies' Muslin Underwear, new Sumteach it and how to govern it. These mer Styles. All garments at $1.50 discussions emphasized the general principles underlying successful school management, and abounded in practical suggestions and cautions and guide the the young teacher into successful methods and lead him to avoid errors that the inexperienced are liab'e to fall into. He also discussed the various subjects of study embraced in the Syllabus furnished by the State Board of Education, giving especial attention to Reading, Arithmetic and Nature study, and illusments and suggested to the teachers a course of oral instruction, by the use of which they might greatly add to the interest and profit of their pupils without burdening them with additional work.

He advocated, strongly, the introduction of Drawing and Music into the curriculum of the Public Schools, showing how valuable they may be made, both as as instruments of culture and as means to make a livelihood.

His closing address on Consciousness and Attention, was among his best, setting forth the nature of Consciousness, the conditions of its healthy exercise, and discussing the different kinds of Attention and the methods by which the power of Volumbary Attention, so necessary to the success of the student, may be acquired as a habit.

The teachers were urged to participate in the discussions, and not a few of them responded in well-considered thoughts on the various subjects considered, showing that Bourbon county has earnest, competent workers in its Public Schools, who are striving to keep pace with advanced thought on education

The fo'lowing teachers, not connected with the County Schools, contributed by invitation to the discussion of special subjects-Messrs. Sharon, Elliot, Croxton and McChesney, and Misses Blanche Lilleston and Annie May Simms. The contributions of these well-known teachers was highly appreciated by the teachers, as well as by the Superintendent and Instructor. It is to be hoped tha Prof. Croxton's discussion of the way to teach vocal music in the Public Schools will bear fruit in the work of the teachers during the ensuing year

The program of Thursday was varied by the graduating exercises of two young ladies in the Common School Course. One of them, Miss Davie Turner, of Miss Lenihan's school, gave a recitation, and the other, Miss Rowena Abnee, of Miss Sallie Whaley's school, a Valedictory address, both of which were well received; after which diplomas were awarded to them in an appro priate address by Prof. Sharon. A gold medal was then awarded Miss Abnee by Mrs. Nell Bedford Clay, for obtaining the highest average on all her studies, the presentation address being made by Col. Edgar.

Mrs. Clay announced that a diploma would have been awarded to Miss Edna Earl Speakes, had she lived to participate in the closing exercises.

Misses Katie Lee Hooge and Winifred Doyle contributed some excellent music on this occision.

Two of our city pastors, Messrs. Morgan and Clark, were present on two mornings to conduct the opening religious exercises, and Mrs. Johnson, Misses Fannie Johnson, Bettie Brent Johnson, day at Saturday in August and Septem- Matilda Alexander, Blanche Lilleston, ber; return limit 60 days from date of Mattie Lilleston, Georgie Fithian, Mrs. Owen Davis and Messrs. ### Caution!

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Brouchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The Proceedings of the 37th Annual Assemblage.

Gen. John C. Black, of Illinois, Was Elected Commander-in-Chief-The Next Encampment Will Be Held in Boston.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.-The Grand Army of the Republic Thursday selected Boston as the place in which the encampment of 1904 will be held, and elected the following officers:

The first report of the afternoon was that of the flag committee. It recommended the passage of bills through congress and the different states for the purpose of fostering public sentiment in favor of honoring the national fiag. The report of the committee was adopted.

A proposition to admit sons of veterans into the grand army posts was strongly supported, but after an extended debate was defeated by a small majority. The encampment adopted a resolution requesting congress to pass a bill pensioning all veterans who have reached the age of 62 years.

The Woman's Relief Corps elected the following officers Thursday afternoon: National president, Sarah Winans. Ohio: senior vice commander. Ursula M. Mattison, Washington.

The National Association of Army Nurses of the civil war held its annual election Thursday. There was a large number present and the meeting was largely of a social nature, though held in executive session. The following officers were elected: National president. Mrs. Addie L. Ballou, California; national vice president, Mrs. Susannah Mimps, Pennsylvania; junior vice president, Mrs. James Smith, Ohio; treas, urer, Mrs. S. M. Stewart, Gettysburg, Pa.; chaplain, Mary E. Lacy, New Jersey; guard, Mary F. Fox, New Jersey; conductor, Mrs. E. L. Chapman, Illinois.

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—The 37th national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic closed Friday afternoon after a protracted morning session.- The newly elected officers, with the exception of Junior Vice Commander Kessler, who is now on the way from the Philippines, were installed.

It was resolved to telegraph to President Roosevelt the resolution favoring the pensioning of veterans of 62 years of age, which was adopted Thursday.

The committee on resolutions preposal to make all past adjutant generals members of the encampment Plumber and Gas Fittel; was defeated. A resolution favoring legislation to prevent, by education was defeated. A resolution favoring and in other ways, the desecration of the flag was adopted.

The proposed establishment of national soldiers' homes at Fort Shermen, Idaho, in Florida, and in Oklahoma was endorsed.

The encampment unanimously adopted the following resolution introduced by Capt. P. H. Coney, of Topeka, Kan.:

"Resolved, That we congratulate that splendid soldier, exemplary commander and patriotic citizen, Gen. Nelson A. Miles, on his attainment of a distinguished and honorable retirement after a matchless record as a soldier of over 42 years' service without just criticism of his official conduct, which began as a lieutenant in the 22d Massachusetts infantry, progressing by the brightest grade of heroic patriotism from Manassas to Appomattox, during the greatest of all civil wars, from 1861 to 1865, and illuminating this record by his great military achievements as a successful Indian fighter and again as a great and judicial military disciplinarian and organizer."

Commander-in-Chief Black, after the adjournment of the encampment, received the following telegram from Gen. John B. Gordon, commander-inchief of the United Confederate Veterans:

"My hearty congratulations to you and the country. Your election assures unanimous and increased good will and closest amity."

Gen. Black responded as follows: "The encampment having adjourned, have submitted your message to the council of administration, and I am directed by them to acknowledge it and say, as I do, that they fully reciprocate its fraternal and beneficent spirit. God bless our land.

THE CUP DEFENDER.

The Reliance Outfooted and Outpointed the Shamrock.

New York, Aug. 21.-One of the biggest crowds of sightseers and yachtsmen that ever sailed down Sandy Hook to witness an attempt of a foreign cup hunter to wrest from America the yachting supremacy of the world, returned to New York Thursday disappointed because the sea had refused a field of combat to the racers, but nevertheless, jubilant in the conviction that Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger, like the two Shamrocks which had preceded her, was doomed to return to England empty handed. Of course the race Thursday was not absolutely conclusive owing to the light and shifting character of the airs, but in a 15-mile beat to windward, a portion of which was sailed in a driving rain, the cup defender, Reliance, showed its heels to Sham-

During the last two hours of the race Reliance steadily increased its lead, rounding the turn a mile ahead of Shamrock. Heading back for home close hauled, Reliance had just reached Shamrock, still outward bound, when, it being apparent that the race could not be finished in the time allowance, the regatta committee boat at 3:45 fired the signal which declared the race off. Under the rules the first race, 15 miles to leeward or windward and return, is now postponed until Thirty Persons Were Thrown Into the Water.

Several Men Became Wild From the Excitement and Made Attempts to Throw Women and Children From the Vessel.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 24.—Amid scenes of panic in which terror-stricken men lost their heads and sought to throw women and children overboard, he pleasure steamer Indiana went to the bottom of the Indianapolis Water Co.'s canal at Fairview Park Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

The park officials think nobody was drowned, but J. N. Oliphant, of Indianapolis, and P. E. Betts, of Anderson, Ind., who were passengers, say that they saw a woman and baby sink to the bottom. They did not see them come to the surface again and feel sure they were drowned.

About fifty people were on board when the vessel sank, about threequarters of a mile above its starting point in the canal, which is about eight miles long and runs from Indianapolis to Broad Ripple Park. The canal is narrow and from ten to fifteen feet deep in the middle. It is not yet certain what sent the steamer to the bot-

Defective machinery, overloading on one side and leaks are blamed by different persons.

Skiffs on the canal aided in the work of rescue of fainting women and children. Mr. Bates, who says he saw the woman and baby drown, saved his wife as she sank the third time.

She weighs over 200 pounds. Thirty people were thrown into the water when the boat sank. Several of the male passengers did heroic work in getting them to shore. They were aided by the ship's crew. The Summer Bath.

Nothing is more refreshing or invigorating in summer than a daily bath. Use soft, tepid water and good soap. Many women and doctors do not recognize the real symptoms of derangement of the female organs until too late.

"I had terrible pains along my spinal cord for two years and suffered dreadfully. I was given different medicines, wore plasters; none of these things helped me. Reading of the cures that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought about, I somehow felt that it was what I needed and bought a bottle to take. How glad I am that I did so; two bottles brought me immense relief, and after using three bottles more I felt new life and blood surging through my veins. It seemed as though there had been a regular house cleaning through my system, that all the sickness and poison had been taken out and new life given me instead. I have advised dozens of my friends to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Good health is indispensable to complete happiness, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has secured this to me." -MRS. LAURA L. ### LORD SALISBURY DEAD

The English Statesman Succumbed to Internal Paralysis.

In His Death Passes the Greatest Englishman of the Day-King Edward Pays a Tribute to the Dead Diplomat.

London, Aug. 24.-Lord Salisbury, last of the great statesmen of the past generation, is dead under the burden of his advanced age.

Lord Salisbury had been ill since early last winter, but his condition was not regarded as serious until in the beginning of the present month. According to the medical journals he suffered from internal paralysis, which developed from the illness following the death of his wife in 1899. Notwithstanding his illness, he had persisted in working until he was forced to take to his bed.

In the death of Lord Salisbury passes the greatest Englishman of the day. Ten years ago half the nation only would have asserted so much; to-day all Britain recognizes him as

The newspapers Monday morning, ders, devote the bulk of their space to the last hours and career of the marquis of Salisbury. In their editorials they pay warm tributes and express deep admiration for the dead man, recognizing that with him there passes away the last of the great English statesman of the Victroia era, as well as the last of the brilliant group of European diplomats.

King Edward's tribute to the deceased marquis of Salisbury was given in the Court Circular Sunday night, dated Marienbad, Sunday. It runs as follows:

"The king has received with profound regret the news of the death of the marquis of Salisbury and his majesty deeply deplores the loss of so great a statesman whose invaluable services to Queen Victoria, to the king and his country in the highest offices of state which he held for so many years will ever dwell in the memory of his fellow countrymen.'

Messages of condolence are pour-Alexandra, the queen of Portugal and President Loubet. Touching references were made to the dead statesman in the pulpits of almost all the churches in the United Kingdom. There were many visitors to the village of Hatfield Sunday.

The parish church was crowded Surday morning, the worshipers including Premier Balfour, the earl and countess of Selborne, the marquis' sons and the members of his family and household.

Lord William Cecil, the rector of the church, officiated, but beyond choice music and appropriate hymns the service was of the usual character.

The senior curate in his sermon paid a tribute to the deceased, specially dwelling on his private virtues and his devotion to the church. In the conclusion of the discourse the whole congregation rose and remained standing while the organist played the Dead March in Saul. The funeral has been provisionally fixed for the end of this week to enable Lord Edward Cecil, who is on his way home from Egypt, to assist.

CHAPTER XVII.

Events moved swiftly in the week that followed. Particulars of the accident to Gen. Field, however, were slow in reaching Fort Frayne; and, to the feverish unrest and mental trouble of the son, was now added a feverish-anxiety on the father's account that so complicated the situation as to give Dr. Waller grave cause for alarm. Then it was that, ignoring every thought of behavior on the part of the young officer toward the gentle girl so dear to them, not only Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Ray, but Mrs. Dade herself insisted on being made use of-insisted on being permitted to go to his bedside and there to minister as only women can, to the suffering and distressed. Waller thought it over and succumbed. The lad was no longer delirious, at least, and if he revealed anything of what was uppermost in his mind it would be a conscious and voluntary revelation. There were some things he had said and that Waller alone had heard, the good old doctor wished were known to certain others of the garrison, and to no one more than Mrs. Dade; and so the prohibition against their visiting the wounded lad was withdrawn, and not only these, but other women, sympathetically attracted, were given the necessary au-

There was other reason for this. From the commanding officer of the supply camp at Rock Springs had come, finally a letter that was full of foreboding. Gen. Field, it said, was sorely injured and might not survive. If the department commander had only been at Omaha or Cheyenne, as the anxious father hastened to reach his son, the mishap would never have occurred. The general would gladly have seen to it that suitable transportation from the railway to Frayne was afforded his old-time comrade. But, in his absence, Field shrank from appealing to anyone else. and, through the train conductor, wired ahead to Rock Creek for a stout, fourmule team and wagon, with a capable driver. The conductor assured him that such things were to be in readiness on his arrival. Team, wagon and driver certainly were on hand, but the team looked rickety, so did the wagon, so did the driver, who had obviously been priming for the occasion. It was this rig or nothing, however, and in spite of a courteous remonstrance from the two officers at the supply camp, who saw and condemned the "outfit," Gen. Field started on time and returned on an improvised trestle three hours later. The "outfit" had been tumbled over a ledge into a rocky bottom and with disastrous results to all concerned except the one who deserved it mostthe driver. The ways of Providence

A surgeon had been sent from Fort Russell and his report was such that Waller would not let it go in fuli to his patient. They had carried the old soldier back to camp and such aid as could be given by the rude hands of untaught men was all he had for going and coming in the soft earth the room, and this, too, had been rannearly 24 hours and his suffering had been great. Internal injuries, it was feared, had been sustained, and at padlocked at once and Wilkins took his advanced age that was something almost fatal. No wonder Waller was worried. A sentry, in discharge of his duty, had warned them one evening away from the rear gate of a bachelor den, along officers' row, and had been told to go to sheol, or words to that effect. Pete and Crapaud, paid henchmen of the trader, had been taking advantage a minute." When Mrs. McGann said "the meejor" she meant not Flint, but his predecessor. There was but one major in her world-the one she treated like a minor. Being a soldier's wife, however, she knew the deference due to the commanding officer, even though she did not choose to show it. and when bidden to say her say, and tell what things "was goin' on," Mistress McGann asservated, with the asperity of a woman who has had to put her husband to bed two nights running, that the time had never been before that he was so drunk that he didn't know his way home, and got into the back of the bachelor quarters instead of his own. "And to along. They virtually damned and think ov his bein' propped up at his own gate by a lousy, frog-eatin' half Frinchman, haf salvage!" Yet, when the commanding officer, and that investigated, this proved to be the case, and the further question arose, he should order the culprits off the where did McGann get his whisky? A faithful, loyal, devoted old servitor was McGann, yet Webb, as we have ant, was feeling far from well and seen, had ever to watch his whisky carefully, lest the Irishman should see it, and seeing taste, and tasting angel Mrs. Dade herself, and Mrs. fall. The store had orders from Mrs. McGann, countersigned by Webb, to the misconduct of the men, even the effect that her husband was never when assuring Major Flint she feared to have a drop. Flint was a teetotaler it was a matter in which Mrs. Hay bimself, and noted without a shadow was powerless. They were afraid of disapprobation that the decanters on the sideboard were both empty the Mrs. Hay's illness, Mrs. Dade and very day he took possession, also that other women had come to visit and the cupboard was securely locked. Mrs. McGann was sure her liege got no liquor there nor at the store, and his confused statement that it was given him by "fellers at the stables," was treated with scorn. McGann then was still under martial surveillance and official displeasure the day after Mrs. McGann's revelations, with unexplained iniquities to answer for when his head had cleared and his legs resumed their functions. But by that time other matters were brough; to light that laid still further accusation at his door. With the consent of Dr. Waller, Lieut. Field had been allowed to send an attendant for his desk. There were letters, he said, he greatly wished to see and answer, and Mrs. Ray had been so kind as to ame back with a scared face. Somebody, he said, had been there before

They did not tell Field this at the time. The doctor went at once with the messenger, and in five minutes had taken in the situation. Field's rooms had been entered and probably robbed. There was only one other occupant of the desolate set that so recently had rung to the music of so many glad young voices. Of the garrison proper at Frayne all the cavalry officers except Wilkins were away at the front; all the infantry officers, five in number, were also ur along the Big Horn. The four who had come with Flint were strangers to the post, but Herron, who had been a classmate of Ross at the Point, moved into his room and took the responsibility of introducing the contracto doctor, who had come with of the house on the second floor. unlocked. There was nothing, said the lawful occupant, worth stealing, which was probably true; but Field had bolted, inside, the door of his sleeping room; locked the hall door with him when he rode with Ray. The doctor looked over the rooms a moment; then sent for Wilkins, the post quartermaster, who came in a Field had been rather peculiar about his belongings. His uniforms always hung on certain pegs in the plain wooden wardrobe. The drawers of bed and floor. Trousers had been treated with like contempt. The bureau looked like what sailors used to call a "hurrah's nest," and a writing desk, brass-bound and of solid make, that stood on a table by a front winthe floor. A larger desk-a wooden field desk-stood upon a trestle across tered was patent to all-through a and the now unused dining-room beyond. Just who were the housebreakers no man present could say; but Mistress McGann that afternoon communicated her suspicion to her sore-headed spouse, and did it boldly and with the aid of a broomstick. "It's all along," she said, "av your shtoopin' to dhrink wid them lowlived salvages at Hay's. Now, what d'ye know about this?"

But McGann swore piously he knew -dear knows when it was, an' he'd ington Times,

> That was all Michael remembered or felt warranted in revealing, for stoutly he declared his and their innocence of having burglariously entered any premises, let alone the lieutenant's. "Sure they'd bite their own noses off fur him," said Mike, which impossible feat attested the full measure of half-breed devotion. Mistress McGann decided to make further investigation before saying anything to anybody; but before the dawn of another day, matters took such shape that fear of sorrowful consequences, involving even Michael, set a ban on her impulse to speak. Field, it seems, had been at last induced to sleep some hours that evening, and it was nearly twelve when he awoke and saw his desk on a table near the window. The attendant was nodding in an easy chair; and, just as the young officer determind to rouse him, Mrs. Dade, with the doctor, appeared on tiptoe at the doorway. For a few minutes they kept him interested in letters and reports concerning his father's condition, the gravity of which, however, was still withheld from him. Then there were reports from Tongue River, brought in by courier, that had to be told him. But after a while he would no longer be denied. He had demanded to see his desk and his letters.

At a sign from the doctor, the attendant raised it from the table and bore it to the bed. "I found things in some confusion in your quarters, Field," said Waller, by way of preparation, "and I probably haven't arranged the letters as you would if you had had time. They were lying about loosely-

Outside, in the faint starlight, sound of commotion came from the direction of the guard house-of swift footfalls from far across the parade, of the vitreous jar of windows hastily raised. Two or three lights popped suddenly into view along the dark line of officers' quaroffer to act as his amanuensis. The ters, and Waller's voice, with a ring attendant went with the key and of authority unusual to him, halted a running corporal of the guard.

"What is it?" demanded he. "I don't know, sir" was the soldier's answer. "There was an awful scream from the end of the quarters -Capt. Ray's, sir." Then on he went Circumstantial Evidence.

It is a rule, to which good lawyers usually adhere, never to tell more than one knows. A newspaper tells a funny story of a lawyer who carried the rule to the extreme.

One of the agents in a Midland revision court in England objected to a person whose name was on the register, on the ground that he wan dead. The revising barrister declined to accept the assurance, however, and demanded conclusive testimony on the point.

The agent of the other side rose and gave corroborative evidence as to the decease of the gentlemen in question.

"But, sir, how do you know the man's dead?" demanded the barris.

"Well," was the reply, "I don't know. It's very difficult to prove." "As I suspected," returned the barrister. "You don't know whether he's dead or not." The barrister glanced triumphantly round the court, but his expression gradually underwent & change as the witness coolly continued: "I was saying, sir, that I don't know whether he is dead or not, but I do know this: they buried him about a month ago on suspicion."--Youth's Companion.

HOW TO EAT SWEET CORN.

A Helpful Suggestion Which Will

Meet with General Favor

When Adopted.

We have decided that corn boiled on the ear tastes better as a separate course, and it is accordingly served immediately after the meat. After being carefully looked over for shreds of imbedded husk and stray silk it is thrown into rapidly boiling water and cooked for ten minutes, counting from the time that the water bubbles again; it is then drained and taken-to table wrapped in the folds of a napkin of ample size. Set beside each person a finger-bowlan essential not to be forgotten-and before each a plate holding a ball of butter, a spreader and a fork, says Good Housekeeping.

Hulls are not only useless as food, but are very irritating to the digestive organs. Why not leave them on the cob by the following quick and not ungraceful method? With the corn resting on the plate, hold it firmly by the stalk end, and, if it is hot-"What is genius?" asked the man who as it should be-you will not think a small corn doily superfluous. Take a fork in the right hand so that one tine that question," answered Mr. Sirius only is in position to be inserted lengthwise into a row of kernels, beginning at tip end of the cob. Thrust in the fork and by a slight upward motion of the hand raise the handle, and the tine will cut through the top of the kernels; continue up the row, not attempting to insert the whole length of the tine at each stage of your progress. When you have scored every row, season well-but that is superfluous! When the feast is over, you will have what you wanted and the hulls will be where they were when you the other day I could actually feel the blood congeal in my veins when he came began—the very best place for them.

Eating corn from the cob could not by any device yet known be made to figure as an elegant proceeding, but many care for it in no other way. An improvement, so far as appearance goes, results from breaking the cob in two before attacking further; nevertheless the indulgence "levels all, both great and small."

THE ATHLETIC GIRL.

May Be Thought "Mannish" by Some, But Reaps Reward Mentally and Physically.

The outdoor girl has always been considered womanly simply because she is sc. Both artists and poets have pictured her as a type of young womanhood. There is no reason why the active, athletic girl should be 'mannish." Occasionally a silly girl in quest of distinctiveness puts on men's ways and apparel-and always to the disgust of the womaniy girl and anything but admiration to the opposite sex, says American Queen.

Of course, the outdoor girl has and will ever have her enemies; but, as a rule, the criticism comes from either prudes or from other girls whose artificial make-up would not admit of any violent form of exercise. The prudish people who rise in indignation have no tenable argument to offer, and the latter objectors would gladly follow suit if they could. So, there is really nothing in the way of opinions for the athletic girl to fear. This she knows, so she goes her hygienic ways, reaping a rich reward physically and mentally torher outdoor exercise and pleas-

Many of the college trainers are docfors who are elated over the beneficial and ever refining influence of athletics, because it develops a girl along normal, healthful lines; and, unless car-"But you said he was admitted to the ried to extremes, which is not often the case, can bring nothing but good results for the girl herself. When the lungs are filled with fresh air and the blood circulates as it should, it is indeed a beneficent means by which such results can be obtained.

From a broad, logical standpoint the "I am a self-made man," said the proud athletic girl is the real girl, the type of perfect girlhood and the potential "Well, you are all right except as to mother of a race physically and menyour head," commented the other part tally sound.

BALD HEAD WAS SUGGESTIVE.

Looked Like Map of Holy Land and the Pastor's Actions Did the Rest.

Serious persons laugh rarely, but when they do it is an outburst. According to this there must have been such an outburst at one time during the life of Benjamin Harrison. This hilarity may have developed on the occasion when the future president, then a young man, was visiting at the home of friends, relates the Detroit Free Press. The boy of the family related that at Sunday school that morning they had studied a map of the holy land. "And, papa," he continued, "the cyclone blew down every house in "do you know that Mr. Wilson, who sits in front of us, his bald head looks just like the map of the holy land." The boy was hushed. That evening the entire party went to church. While the pastor was readily announcements the boy looked intently at Mr. Wilson's barren head. Involuntarily the others did the same, no doubt recalling the allusion of the morning. A fiy alighted on Mr. Wilson's geographical pate. "The amount received in the collection this morning will enable us to send another missionary to the holy land," read the pastor. "It will depead upon your future contributions whether or not we will keep him there."

At this moment Wilson's hand swept the intruding fly from the regions suggesting the holy land. The boy went into convulsions. To preserve the dignity of the service the others soon left, for their risibilities were *fast getting beyond control.

Investigation Shows That Hebrews and Catholies Outrank Members of Protestant Denominations.

In the Federation, the quarterly organ of the Federation of Churches and Christian organizations in New York city, is given the result of an investigation into race suicide by the executive secretary, Dr. Walter Laidlaw, who says:

"That religion may have directly to do with the question of race suicide has been illustrated by the sociological studies of the federation. The material collected on both the East and West sides of Manhattan and in various wards of Brooklyn during the past seven years, and the exceptional equipment for handling it; have made it possible to prepare a careful study of the subject.

"The average number of children in the Protestant families is 1.85, in the Roman Cathelie 2.03, and in the Hebrew 2.54 children. Only 16.6 per cent. of the Hebrews are without children, whereas 28.3 per cent, of the Protestants are without children. It should be noticed that six times as many Hebrew families have nine children as have the Frotestant families; and that for every Protestant family with eight children, there are proportionately four Hebrew, and twice as many with seven children. At the other end of the table, it appears that the proportion of Protestant familles with but one or two children is larger than that of the Hebrew families with one or two children.

"Among the Protestant communiors there are several whose average of children is higher than the Roman Catholic average, notably the Episcopalian and Presbyterian, but, excepting the Free Methodist, there is not a single Protestant communion in which the average is as high as the Hebrew.

Peter C. He says it is often observable that English living among exotic races, such as Chinese and negroes, have gained a certain superficial resemblance to them, which is partly due to the climate. He does not doubt that if all races except the English were obliterated the English would slowly spread throughout the world and develop in time into different and distinct races.

Empire State Express in Foot-Balk The New York Central's Empire State Express is recognized as the swiftest and surest train operated by America's greatest railroad, and considered the very best means to cover the ground in the time required. It is for this reason that the Harvard University football team named their best and surest play of the season of 1902 the "Empire State Express," for they believed it to be the most reliable play in their programme. It was successful throughout the season until it met Yale's "20th Century Limited" play, which was just as swift, sale and sure but had longer endurance and was "limited" only by the size of the field. The names of the rival teams very correctly describe the difference in the famous trains, the "Empire State" running on y from New York to Buffalo, while the "20th Century Limited" makes the 980 miles between New York and Chicago in twenty hours every day of the year.
